

Section 117 ("One-one-seven") After-care

What is S.117 After-care?

S.117 After-care is the free help you get when you leave hospital if:

- You have been mentally unwell
- And
- Been in hospital under the Mental Health Act 1983 ("sectioned")

It begins when you leave hospital.

Professionals should start to plan the help you need, as soon as you go into hospital.

Will I get S.117 After-care?

You will get free after-care if you have:

- Been in hospital for treatment and you did not want it (Section 3)
- Been moved from a prison to a hospital (Section 47 or Section 48)

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Been told to go to hospital by a court (Section 37 or Section 45A)
	You will still get free after-care if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You stay in hospital by choice (“voluntary patient”) • You are discharged from hospital under a Community Treatment Order or Guardianship
	What help can I get? Your mental illness might make it harder for you to do some things for yourself. These are called your “needs”. You should be offered services that help you to deal with these problems. This is called “meeting your needs”. These services should also reduce the chances of you having to go back into hospital. When everyone agrees what help you need they will write this down. This is called a “care plan”.

This might include:

- Where you live
- What treatment you will receive (e.g. medication or talking to a nurse)
- Things you can do during the day
- What help you will get with managing your money
- What help you will get to go to work or to study

You can choose how you want your needs met.

You can ask Social Services to give you the money for your support and you can arrange your own help.
This is called a “direct payment”.

Can I get free housing?

A house or flat that you rent from a landlord is called your “basic housing need”.

This is not usually free but you might be entitled to housing benefit.

Housing where you can get extra care, support or supervision is called “supported accommodation”.
You might have to pay the rent but your care will be free.

Who will be involved in deciding my after-care?

1) Your “Carer” if you want them to be.

This is the person who looks after you.

2) Your “Nearest Relative” if you want them to be.

This is usually someone in your family but the law says who this is.

It is the job of your Nearest Relative to:

- Look out for you

And

- Make sure your wishes and choices are heard and understood

(Please see the information leaflet on “Your Nearest Relative”)

3) Your “Care Coordinator”.

This is the person who is your main point of contact and support from the Community Mental Health Team.

4) You can also get help to understand your care plan from an advocate

(Please see information leaflet on "Independent Mental Health Advocate")

5) Your local Social Services in the area where you lived before hospital

6) Your local NHS
"Clinical Commissioning Group" (CCG).
This is a group of GPs who decide what health services people should be able to have.

When will my free after-care end?

You must be given it for as long as you need it?

Your local Social Services and your local CCG must decide when you no longer need any after-care services.
This is called "discharge".

Professionals shouldn't discharge you from
S.117 just because:

- You have been discharged from your community mental health team
- Some time has passed since you left hospital.
- You have gone back to hospital by choice ("voluntary patient")

	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• You have gone back to hospital for an assessment (Section 2)• Your Community Treatment Order ends• You don't want after-care services
	What happens when I am going to be discharged Professionals will hold a meeting and invite you to this. You will be able to bring an advocate with you. You will also be able to bring your Carer and/or your Nearest Relative if you want.

What if I am not happy about the help I am having?

You can complain about anything to do with your care and treatment
