

Adoption Support Front Door Protocol

Cases in Post Adoption & Safeguarding

Post Adoption does not have statutory involvement with families. Post Adoption is a service that works in agreement with parents providing support to families. The Post Adoption service is a self-referral service.

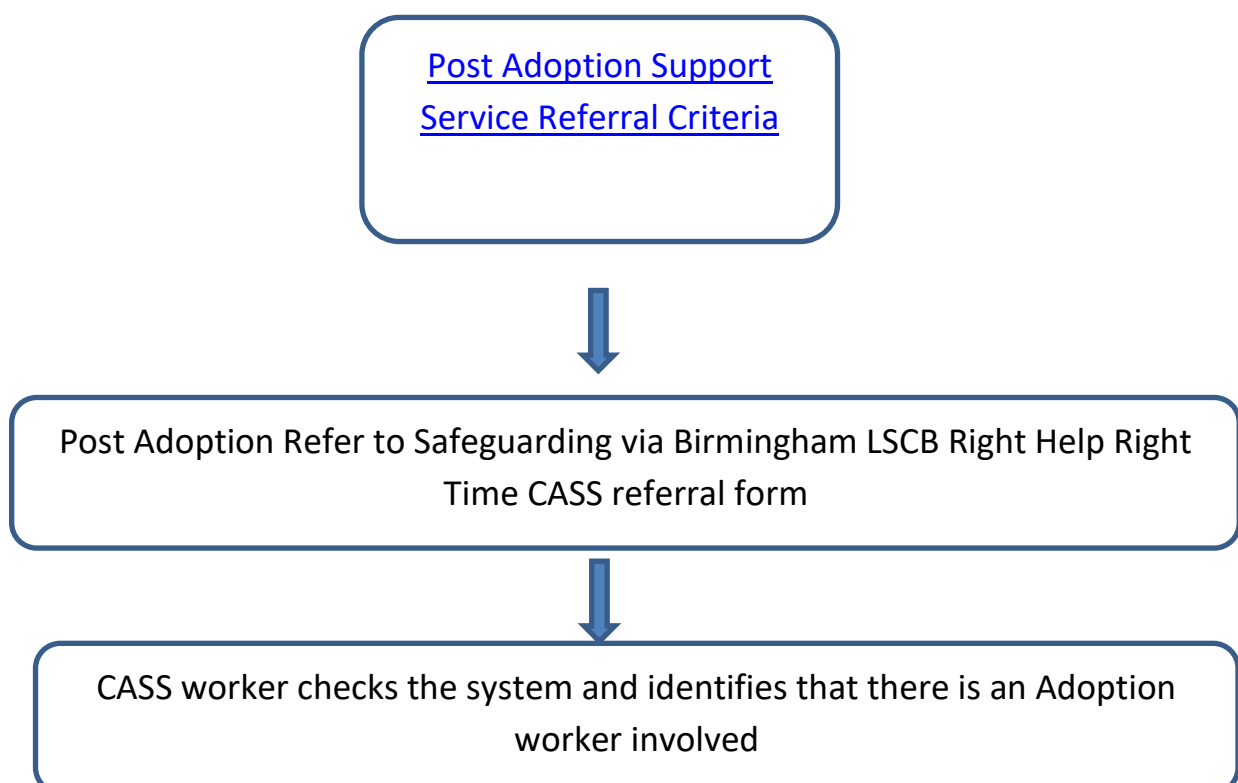

Where statutory involvement is required a referral will be made into CASS.

Where a parent is struggling to parent their child, and this results in risk or potential risk to the child, the Post Adoption Service will refer directly to CASS. The Post Adoption Service will always inform parents that a referral is being made.

Where a parent is of the view that their child is beyond parental control or there is a risk of family breakdown the Post Adoption service can refer directly to CASS or Parents may contact CASS directly.
